4 February 2009

The EMF is the main European not-for-profit organisation promoting the competitiveness of the converging digital media & technologies industries in the global market place.

Open calls: EU funding programmes

The ICT PSP Call 3 has been published recently, with a deadline of 2 June 2009. It continues the efforts of the eContentPlus programme that came to an end in 2008 and as such, complements the ICT programme of FP7.

Furthermore, as a reminder, the Lifelong Learning Programmes (e.g. Leonardo, Grundtvig, ICT and language horizontal actions) are currently open, with deadlines between 27 February and end of March 2009.

Last but not least, Call 4 of the ICT programme is open with a deadline of 1 April 2009.

Official start of the PRO-IDEAL project to promote the ICT dialogue with Latin America On 1st November 2008 started PRO-IDEAL, a project funded by the ICT programme of FP 7 to promote this programme outside Europe, i.e. in Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay. If you need a partner from these countries, or simply want to be informed about the opportunities, contact us (in@e-multimedia.org) or visit the project blog.
 by the Leonardo programme. Find out more...	e-Content Developers qualifications – a boost to employment There is a continuously growing skills shortage in the Multimedia sector in many European countries, which specially affects the field of content development (e-game development, e-learning content and Multimedia content development). The main objectives of the EQFCoda project are to analyse the current qualification profiles in the field of e-content development and describing them by learning outcomes. In a second phase, reference material for enterprises and guidelines for training institutions will be developed so that they can adapt their training offers in the field of content development accordingly. The project is co-funded
Lyon ICT conference 25-27 November 2008 This biennial conference aggregates the main players in ICT all over Europe and the world. Networking sessions cater for all sectors and explore past results and future developments. The 2009/2010 ICT work programme will be presented at this occasion.
