

eHealth ★ Across Europe ★ Collaborative ★ Interactive

- Establishing interoperable eHealth services to the benefit of EU citizens is a common challenge for health systems in Europe.
- European national governments have taken important steps towards a collaborative approach; the European Commission is supporting such collaboration initiatives.
- These encouraging developments call for a dedicated forum for decision makers, implementers, professionals, patients and other stakeholders to share their views and experiences on how to make eHealth interoperability a reality.

CALLIOPE CALL for InterOPERability

- CALLIOPE creates a structured and open forum to support the implementation of interoperable eHealth infrastructures and services across Europe.
- CALLIOPE builds a unique cross-stakeholder platform aspiring to governing principles and supported by a communication infrastructure and knowledge management tools.
- CALLIOPE will review and advance the EC interoperability recommendation, add value to eHealth standardisation initiatives and propose a European roadmap for eHealth interoperability.

CALLIOPE has been initiated by 17 organisations representing national governments and eHealth competence centres and by 11 European organisations of health professionals, patients, health insurers and industry to realise their mandate and their commitment in the successful deployment of eHealth.

CALLIOPE welcomes further representation from such organisations.
