

Efficient Hydrogen Production is demonstrated for the first time by exploiting the light-sensitive properties of conjugated polymers in synergy with three-dimensional nanostructured electrodes. Realization of large-area devices without use of precious catalysts, able to work at neutral pH, is established.