Project description

Comparative analysis of Palestinian transnational youth activism

The EU-funded PYC project will implement cross-generational and transnational comparative frameworks to investigate the political potential of contemporary Palestinian transnational youth activism in the United States and Europe. It will provide a comprehensive mapping of youth and student experiences to assess what initiatives are emerging and what capacity they hold in re-structuring the Palestinian national movement. PYC will analyse student political engagement by comparing the formation and development of the General Union of Palestinian Students (GUPS) during the ‘golden age’ of the Palestinian revolution (1960s-1970s) with contemporary initiatives, efforts and mobilisation strategies amongst Palestinian youth in the diaspora.
