Project description

A prescription for healthcare innovation

Healthcare providers are under pressure to improve services, but face numerous challenges (rising costs and an increase in chronic diseases, as well as an ageing population). While much of the focus is on hospitals and clinics, traditional healthcare frameworks also need to foster the development of innovative health solutions. In this context, the EU-funded HealthEConnect project will explore how educational establishments and training providers can play an increasingly important role in developing an entrepreneurial spirit and driving innovation. It will strengthen cooperation between two innovation ecosystems: one in Portugal and the other in Denmark. HealthEConnect will support next-generation healthtech companies through a co-designed, user-centred and entrepreneurial-driven healthtech innovation and entrepreneurship educational offer.
