Working paper on responsibility sharing

This working paper examines the meaning of solidarity in the context of asylum, usually debated under the term ‘responsibility sharing’. It aims to examine EU Member States’ understanding of solidarity in the context of asylum. In particular, it will investigate the EU’s initial position on solidarity among the Member States of the EU, and whether this approach has shifted over the years and in the course of the last waves of enlargement of the EU in 2004, 2007 and 2013.

WP2 Chapter for the final report

Based on the research within WP2, this deliverable summarizes the main research questions, methodologies and results.

CEASEVAL Newsletter 1

Project newsletter, informing of main research steps, outcomes, and events.

AIDA comparative reports

The report will follow the AIDA framework and provide comparative analysis of the country studies.

Cross-national comparative report

Based on the data generated from tasks 5.1 to 5.3, the deliverable will identify different patterns of politicisation among EU countries and analyse the main drivers as well as possible consequences. In terms of drivers, we will consider under what conditions politicisation has developed in different countries. In terms of consequences, the key question is to what extent different patterns of politicisation explain different Member State positions on responsibility sharing, especially in relation to relocation schemes. The focus on both drivers and consequences will allow us to understand how the insight and contextual understanding of discourses can be translated into the development of proactive strategies (e.g. in the field of communication, civil society, education, etc.).

WP7 Chapter for the final report

The deliverable reports on main research questions, methodology, research implementation and results of WP7 as part of the CEASEVAL final report.

Report on the importance of the local level as a venue and political base for the CEAS

The deliverable report the results of a comparative analysis of research results, establishing which, and how, ideal models arising out of the literature study (WP1) and the empirical analysis (WP2-6) of CEASEVAL resonate with the stakeholders. A specific focus is given to the local level as a venue and political base for the CEAS.

Presentation of final results at the final conference in Chemnitz

The deliverable presents detailed models for a sustainable CEAS that would optimally satisfy the goals of refugee protection within the EU, with due consideration for Member States' needs for equitable outcomes.

Report containing the detailed models for a sustainable CEAS

The deliverable will draft detailed models for a sustainable CEAS based on the research and stakeholder discussions convened within this WP. Detailed sustainable models will be arranged according to the primary goals each model seeks to accomplish, integrating scenarios differing in the extent and levels of harmonisation of the CEAS, and based on the results of the state-of-the-art review (WP1) and empirical analysis (WP2-6) realised in CEASEVAL.

Comparative and synthesis report

Comparative and synthesis report on the interactions between borders and the mobility of migrants ('irregular migrants', asylum seekers and refugees), informed by the empirical case studies. Based on the case study findings, the deliverable will critically reflect and discuss how bordering processes are implemented when confronted with the mobility of migrants at different stages, such as interception before entry into the Schengen area (e.g. at sea), 'illegal' entry at external borders, 'irregular' transit, and secondary movement across internal borders after making asylum claims or being granted status.

Annotated bibliography of academic/policy analysis on asylum in the EU

The annotated bibliography will result from a bibliographic review of academic research into the common EU asylum system, with a particular focus on the politicisation of immigration and refugees in Europe and discussions on 'burden sharing' mechanisms. This will focus on all publications in academic journals since 2000 and incorporating working papers and public reports published since 2010. These will be collected into a shared annotated bibliography.

WP6 Chapter for the final report

The deliverable reports on main research questions, methodology, research implementation and results of WP6 as part of the CEASEVAL final report.

WP1 Chapter for the final report

The deliverable will consist of a chapter for the final report, summarizing the research questions, methodology and main outcomes in the context of the whole project.

WP4 Chapter for the final report

The deliverable reports on main research questions, methodology, research implementation and results of WP4 as part of the CEASEVAL final report.

Report on ideal-typical CEAS models

Starting from the needs of refugees as the core issue, the deliverable drafts several scenarios by which the CEAS could produce optimal protection results, while also achieving solidarity and equity between Member States. 'Equity' in this equation can be defined in alternative ways, e.g. as an outcome of equal numbers, costs, benefits, or realised by means of 'side payments'. This exercise will be informed by the outcomes of the state-of-the-art literature review of WP1, as well as empirical analysis of WP2-6. ECRE and Universiteit van Amsterdam will perform this task jointly.

WP4 Policy brief

WP4 Policy brief will summarize the findings of WP4 with relevance for key stakeholders in the field of bordering and mobility of migrants.

CEASEVAL Newsletter 2

Project newsletter, informing of main research steps, outcomes, and events.

Update of 10 AIDA country reports \(AT, BG, DE, FR, EL, ES, HU, IT, NL, TR\)

Six case studies reports of good practice examples of shared responsibilities in the CEAS framework between one or more EU Member States

The deliverable presents six case studies reports of good practice examples of shared responsibilities in the CEAS framework between one or more EU Member States, as a result of the research carried out within Task 6.1-6.3.

State-of-the-art report on public attitudes, political discourses and media coverage of the arrival of refugees, as well as EU and Member States' responses

Based on the annotated bibliography and the literature review, a state-of-the-art report is created, reflecting public attitudes, political discourses and media coverage of the arrival of refugees, as well as EU and Member States' responses.

International final conference held in Chemnitz

International final academic conference held in Chemnitz, aiming at disseminating academic output and policy recommendations.

Report on the effectiveness of harmonisation of the CEAS, based on the different harmonisation tools

Following the AIDA methodology, the effectiveness of the legal harmonisation will be assessed and analysed with a focus on the national implementation of CEAS legislation, the interpretation of EU law by the Court of Justice of the EU, relevant jurisprudence of the European Court of Human Rights (ECHR), at the national level, including in selected non-EU countries. The evaluation of the implementation of the instruments of the CEAS will be approached through four core themes: 1) asylum procedures, including the operation of the Dublin System; 2) reception conditions for asylum seekers; 3) detention of asylum seekers, and; 4) content of international protection.

National reports on the governance of the asylum reception system in Germany, Italy, Greece, Spain, Bulgaria, Luxembourg and Finland

Mapping the formal governance structure of the national reception systems. Through the analysis of official documents, mapping the formal governance structure of the national reception system, i.e. the articulation of the reception systems, competences and tasks of the actors at different levels (national, regional, local) and formal decisionmaking procedures and venues. Case studies: Germany, Italy, Greece, Spain, Bulgaria, Luxembourg and Finland

Working paper reviewing quantitative and qualitative analysis of publications

The working paper will review the quantitative and qualitative analysis of publications carried out in WP 1 and report about main outcomes and implications.

WP5 Chapter for the final report

The deliverable reports on main research questions, methodology, research implementation and results of WP5 as part of the CEASEVAL final report.

Working paper on solidarity

The working paper examines the meaning of solidarity in the treaties, its evolution as a legal concept in EU law and its interpretation in different fields of EU policymaking, both in an academic context as well as in practice.

National reports \(Finland, Germany, Bulgaria, Hungary, Spain, Italy, Greece and Turkey\)

The deliverable will report on the differentiated patterns of politicisation on the arrival of refugees and on EU, Member States' and non-Member States' policy responses in 7 EU countries and 1 non-EU country (Finland, Germany, Bulgaria, Hungary, Spain, Italy, Greece and Turkey) from April 2015 onwards.

Baseline CEAS study on access to protection and distribution of asylum seekers, the determination of asylum claims and the reception of asylum applicants

Baseline study summarising the academic work, studies, evaluations and the developments of: 1) The access to protection and distribution of asylum seekers across EU Member States, i.e. work on resettlement and complementary pathways providing access to protection in the EU, on Dublin, on the Council Decisions on relocation (Council Decision (EU) 2015/1523 of 14 September 2015 and Council Decision (EU) 2015/1601 of 22 September 2015), on hotspots, on temporary protection, etc., 2) The determination of the status of asylum applicants (Procedures and Qualification Directive/proposal for a Regulation), and 3) The reception of asylum seekers (Reception Directive and its new proposal).

WP8 Chapter for the final report

The deliverable reports on main strategies, activities and outcomes of WP8 as part of the CEASEVAL final report.

CEASEVAL Newsletter 4

Project newsletter, informing of main research steps, outcomes, and events.

WP5 Policy brief

The deliverable reports on main findings with specific relevance for stakeholders in the field of policy making and make recommendations how to reduce politicization of the refugee discourse and how to facilitate a more fact-based and EU solidarity-based response.

Four case studies reports of good practice examples of shared responsibilities of EU Member States with third countries

The deliverable will present four case studies of good practice examples of shared responsibilities of EU Member States with third countries, derived from the research carried out in tasks 6.1-6.3.

CEASEVAL Newsletter 3

Project newsletter, informing of main research steps, outcomes, and events.

WP3 Chapter for the final report

WP3 Report on main research questions, methodology, research implementation and results as part of the CEASEVAL final report.

Thematic paper on “Options for a common asylum system \(harmonisation – regionalisation – externalisation\)”

Based on task 2.3, a thematic paper is prepared shedding light on key features of the CEAS and generating results for further work on scenarios under WP 7. The paper analyses three options of a “common European asylum system”, representing the most dominant current streams of a potential future: a) ‘harmonised’, b) ‘regionalised’, and c) ‘externalised’. It discusses the options along considerations on the institutional set up of the CEAS and examines the gradual and increased proposed shift of asylum policy making from the national to the EU-level, and its perception by policy-makers and stakeholders, thus looking into: a) Nationalised European Asylum System, b) a shared (EU+ Member States’) Asylum System, and c) a centralised EU asylum system (e.g. EASO++).

Comparative report on the multilevel governance of the national asylum reception systems

Mapping and analysing the stakes, goals, resources and strategies of the actors involved at different levels (national, regional, local), the role they played in the decisionmaking process beyond their formal tasks and their mutual relations, and the contextual factors which affect the reception systems. In the case of Italy and Greece, hotspots will also be considered. As for the local level, in each country, 2 different localities with a high level of heterogeneity (in terms of population size, ruling parties, size of the third sector, similar share of asylum seekers or refugees, etc.) have to be considered. Each partner involved will undertake 20-25 qualitative in-depth interviews with key informants, in particular policymakers, high-ranking public officials, leaders of non-profit organisations, representatives of immigrant/refugee associations if relevant. Case studies: Germany, Italy, Greece, Spain, Bulgaria, Luxembourg and Finland

Report on secondary movements

Elaboration of secondary movement across internal borders after making asylum claims or being granted status, based on the research results of the country case studies within WP4.

Policy brief with policy recommendations on the harmonisation of reception

The evidences on factors driving convergence and divergence between national reception systems as well as elements explaining internal heterogeneity within Member States will be discussed in a stakeholder group meeting with policymakers and NGOs to be held in Turin and will feed into policy recommendation within the WP policy brief.

Reports for Turkey, Greece, Spain, Hungary, Germany, France, Luxembourg

Country reports for Turkey, Greece, Spain, Hungary, Germany, France and Luxembourg, focussing on the question of how bordering processes are implemented when confronted with the mobility of migrants at different stages, such as interception before entry into the Schengen area (e.g. at sea), 'illegal' entry at external borders, 'irregular' transit, and secondary movement across internal borders after making asylum claims or being granted status.

New policy database focusing on variables relevant to asylum applications in both sending and receiving countries

The deliverable consists of a new policy database, drawing on existing policy databases and new analysis, with the aim of quantitatively testing the influences on changes in asylum applications across the EU since 2000.

Other (6)

Mapping of current asylum situation in EU Member States

This deliverable will map the current situation of asylum law across the EU. This will provide a simple quantitative measure of the current state of transposition of key directives into national law. This will build on the Asylum Information Database (AIDA), established by ECRE, slightly expanded to ensure that all CEASEVAL case studies will be covered. ECRE will review this document once it has been produced by UOS.

Infographic of main results

Infographic of main results from WP5.

Policy round table

Web-based interactive infographic mapping shared responsibilities in asylum procedures within the EU and at the global level

The deliverable will visualize the research results of Task 6.1 as an interactive web-based infographic, mapping shared responsibilities in asylum procedures within the EU and at the global level.

Infographic of harmonisation tools

mapping and strategy for impact assessment of harmonisation tools

Online interactive map of the encounters between borders and the mobility of migrants

The online interactive map visualizes the encounters between borders and the mobility of migrants.

Websites, patent fillings, videos etc. (8)

Briefing on quantitative literature review

The briefing will be based on the annotated bibliography and the quantitative analysis of all articles (estimate of 200) in the bibliographic database which identifies frequently occurring words and phrases.

Briefing on qualitative analysis of methods and concepts

The deliverable consists of a methodological and conceptual briefing on qualitative literature analysis as carried out in WP1.

"Online ""talking heads"" film edited from interviews at the opening conference"

Online 'talking heads' film edited from interviews at the opening conference, with plans for all WPs.

Online 'talking heads' film edited from interviews at interim conference

Online 'talking heads' film edited from interviews at interim conference, with updates on research.

Video interviews with stakeholders

Stakeholders will be interviewed during a stakeholder group meeting with policymakers and NGOs to be held in Turin, revealing evidences on factors driving convergence and divergence between national reception systems as well as elements explaining internal heterogeneity and contributing to policy recommendations.

Online 'talking heads' film edited from interviews at final conference

Online 'talking heads' film edited from interviews at final conference, with final project results.

Webinar on current situation of asylum law across the EU and discussion of key variables for elaboration of database

As a result of the literature review and the quantitative and qualitative analysis of articles, the webinar will address the current situation of asylum law across the EU and will discuss key variables for the elaboration of the database.

Dedicated website, linking to all research partners, that will form the main public-facing element of the research

Project website, ensuring that all outputs are listed collectively, with notifications of events, links to blogs or social media outputs, postings for full working papers and links to other outputs, including academic publications and innovative deliverables.

Open Research Data Pilot (1)

ORDP

Deposition of reserach data in a research data repository, according to the data management plan.
