Project description

Making SMEs more cyber-resilient

The EU is committed to boosting innovation in the cybersecurity, privacy and data protection sectors. The aim is to make Europe more cyberproof by strengthening deterrence, resilience and response to cyberthreats. An important step is helping to secure SMEs that are increasingly relying on networks and information systems for their business. The EU-funded CyberKit4SME project will develop tools to enable small businesses to become more aware of the risks so as to monitor, forecast and manage them. Specifically, it will design affordable and easy-to-use encryption and isolation tools to protect data. Blockchain tools will also be advanced to enable SMEs to share intelligence and incident reports with computer emergency response teams.
