Objective

CHICAM addresses Research Task 5, focusing specifically on the social and cultural worlds of refugee and migrant children in six European countries. It will explore and develop the potential uses of media and communication technologies as means of empowering these children and enabling them to realise their potential. We will establish an internet communications network to facilitate the sharing of children's media productions across national boundaries, and generate ongoing dialogues between them. We will investigate how these children represent and express their experiences of migration, and how their use of new media might enable them to inform the development of European educational and cultural policies, specifically relating to racism and xenophobia, citizenship and new media of communication.
